

AICTE Sponsored National Conference on
SOFT COMPUTING TECHNIQUES IN ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING
(SCTEE)

09 - 10 July 2010

The Conference

Soft computing techniques are extensively being applied for solving a variety of engineering problems. Soft computing techniques such as artificial neural networks, fuzzy logic system, evolutionary programming, genetic algorithms, particle swarm optimization, are widely being used to solve complex, non-linear, uncertain real world engineering problems. These approaches attract researchers as these are robust and computationally simple and provide more practical and realistic solutions

The major areas for the conference are given below, although the conference is not necessarily restricted to these areas only.

- Artificial intelligence and soft computing Techniques
- Soft computing applications in power sectors
- Signal and image processing
- Advances in Biomedical instrumentation
- Modern trends in Power Electronics and Industrial Drives
- New trends in multi media and communication technology
- GIS & GPS Based Systems

Call for Papers

Authors, intending to present their research paper, are requested to submit one copy (hard & soft copy) of their full length paper not exceeding four pages of IEEE double column format, on or before 30th April, 2010. After recommendation of the reviewers the acceptance of the paper will be sent along with the instructions for preparing the final manuscript. For paper to be published in conference it will be obligatory for at least one of the authors to register and present the paper in the conference.
